COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The highway department started tarring this week. Several streets in town have been done, also a section of the Flat Road in West Bethel. Driveways will be done as soon as possible. Main Street will have to be done later in the summer as the traffic would hinder the project at this time.

An attempt is going to be made to improve Lover's Lane without doing a complete reconstruction job. The worst rocks are being removed from the paved area and a coat of mulch will be applied. The road is very rough and has poor drainage. Until a reconstruction project is done there is no alternative but to do the best possible with the existing road.

WOODSTOCK INCIDENT, PARTICIPANTS APPEAL TO SUPERIOR COURT

A New Hampshire man pleaded innocent in 11th District Court in South Paris Tuesday to three charges arising out of an incident on Monday of last week in Woodstock in which a Maine state trooper was assaulted. The incident reportedly took place a short distance outside of Bryant Pond village.

Joseph Rene Julie Bolduc, 26, whose post office address is Berlin, N. H., charged with intoxication, assault on an officer and resisting arrest, was found guilty on all three counts by Judge Robert L. Browne.

Mr. Bolduc was fined a total of $175. He appealed all three convictions to the October term of Oxford County Superior Court.

The defendant was released after providing $600 bail and two sureties for each offense.

Elmore J. Labonville, 50, mailing address, Berlin, N. H., was found guilty of intoxication, assault on an officer and tampering with a state motor vehicle last Friday in 11th District Court for his part in the same incident. He appealed all three convictions to the October Superior Court.

The two men allegedly assaulted State Trooper Gerald Smith of Bethel after he had stopped a car on a routine check for a defective muffler. Trooper Smith said Mr. Labonville ripped the radio microphone from his car and fled in a second vehicle.

ZONING CHANGES, PLAN, SUB-DIVISION REGULATIONS AIRED, TUESDAY NIGHT

Several proposed changes to the Bethel Zoning Ordinance were discussed at the meeting called for that purpose Tuesday evening in Odion Hall. Also discussed was the Comprehensive Plan for Bethel and proposed sub-division regulations. Approximately 40 Bethel voters attended.

Included in the zoning amendments to be presented to the voters at an upcoming special town meeting will be provision to permit housing for itinerant labor in the Industrial Zone. Under the proposed amendment such workers, not including their families, could live on the premises of the employer in housing owned and controlled by the employer. Such facilities would be subject to the approval of the Building Inspector.

Also recommended would be two changes in the lot area requirements in the Residential Farming Zone. Building lots in this zone with neither public water or public sewer would require 20,000 square feet of land. Lots with public water and sewer would require 10,000 square feet. It is believed that at present few if any lots in the Residential Farming Zone would qualify for the 10,000 square foot area.

Also in the warrant for the special meeting was held will be an article requesting the adoption of zoning in the Residential Farming Zone. This article was submitted by petition before the June 7 special meeting but no action could be taken at that time. State Statutes require that a public hearing at least 10 days before a town meeting shall be held on any zoning amendment.

he held on any zoning amendment.

Creating some discussion was the requirement of building permits, especially fees charged, and publication in the local paper of applications for permits. Building permits have been required by anyone seeking to erect, alter, rebuild, or extend a building since March 5, 1956, a date preceding the adoption of the first Bethel zoning ordinance by some 30 months. The provisions regarding removal of buildings and fees charged are a more recent addition.

In the discussion of the comprehensive plan it was brought out that the plan would provide guidelines for community development as well as providing a priority list of projects. This priority list could be revised by the Planning Board as certain items prove not to be feasible and other items appear to take precedence. Once adopted it shall be the duty of the Planning Board to keep it current with changing conditions.

With regard to the proposed sub-division regulations some of those present doubted the need of such detailed restrictive and sometimes cumbersome regulations such as those proposed. Meeting after the public hearing the Planning Board in a final vote adopted the regulations with one change. Instead of requiring an eight-inch public sewer line, where available, the regulations may provide a six-inch line if the sub-division has a sewer line.

A regular meeting of the Bethel Planning Board will be held Monday, July 17. There will be a social party with coffee.

U. OF M. SOCIOLOGY INSTRUCTOR SEEKS FACTS ON MAINE "JUMPERS"

If you know a "jumper"—come, one whose response to a startling movement is more dramatic than the ordinary—a young University of Maine sociologist would like to hear about it.

Gordon E. Moss, instructor in the U. M. department of sociology and anthropology, is doing research on "Jumpers in Maine" which will add to past findings on the subject.

Maine is closely tied to the condition which at one time was called "Jumpers in Maine" because it was believed that it originated here. About 1878 a man named Beard, who was studying woodmen at Moosehead Lake, noticed it and recorded it for the first time. Since Beard observed it primarily among French-Canadian woodmen, it was originally called the "Jumping Frenchmen in Maine."

In recent years, however, reports of jumpers have come from other countries as far afield as Russia and Burma.

Another explanation of its prevalence in Maine among French-Canadian developed, Moss said from observation of a children's game in which one child touches another who then jumps to a position of jumping. Moss said that the sequence of a jumper to be a start may occur in a variety of ways. Moss said that in general it is an exaggerated movement or an actual involuntary striking out at the nearest bystander.

While this may be potentially dangerous, Moss said, apparently everyone the jumper himself and the people he knows adjust to it and very few serious consequences are reported.

Incidentally, Moss said, jumpers tend to run to families and to more predominant among males. Perhaps it is more common to men than women because because women are more inhibited in their daily lives and associate with a smaller more intimate group of people.

Moss described the condition as a physical response to a real circumstance and the result of the reaction was first observed to a state of jumping in Maine. Moss said that he was interested in the relationship between social factors and physical actions.

Anyone acquainted with a jumper is asked to write to Moss at the University of Maine, 540 North Stevens Hall, Bethel, N. H. 05701.

WATERFORD HISTORICAL SOCIETY LEARNS ABOUT EMERSON'S AUNTS

An article from Aunt Miranda Billings scrapbook of 1870 was read about Ralph Waldo Emerson's three aunts who lived in Waterford. Mrs. Ripley, Mrs. Haskins and Mary Moody Emerson, at the July meeting recently at the Society's rooms at the Flora Abbott residence. Mary Moody Emerson was a writer, like her nephew, but had many peculiar habits. Mrs. Mary Gage, Rice of Worcester, Mass., and Rydal Mount in Waterford, contributed to the discussion and read from Notes on the History of Waterford, Maine by Thomas Hovey Gage, Jr. Elizabeth P. Peabody had given an address at the Waterford Centennial about Mary Moody Emerson which told of her literary ability and many other accomplishments. Mrs. Marian Sylvester Monroe of Cumberland and S. Waterford gave some very interesting information about a relative caring for Mary Moody Emerson.

Mrs. Irene K. Bean, Historical Sign Committee Chairman, reported that another of the Society's historical signs had been placed on a corner of the Newhall town in North Waterford, designating North Waterford as the birthplace of William Green. SUNDAY RIVER

Mrs. R. M. Fleet, Corres.

Mrs. David Fleet was in Berlin, Friday.

Among those that attended the Memorial Services for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Foster June 27 were Mrs. David Fleet, Mrs. Mary Morin and Mrs. Bryce Yates.

Mrs. Laura Adams and two children have been visiting her parents the past four days and calling on old friends.

We miss our old neighbor, the 'Chif Jackson' who we understand are out of town for the summer.

Robert Bean was a caller at Bryce Yates' Sunday A. M.

Mrs. Linda Harrington called at Estes Yates Saturday.

Carroll Yates and two sons, Gary and Jeff, with the help of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Blake and new linoleum for their mother one day recently.

Russell Yates was home from his work in Jefferson, N. H., Wednesday night and Thursday.

Latest reports from our regular "news-caster" is she will be home Tuesday. She has been in Gorham, Maine, the past three weeks with her mother, while her brother was in the hospital following an accident.

When Estes Yates went out in his garden to hoe last Thursday morning he found where a big mouse had walked across his garden.

den He was a gentleman any way as he carefully stepped over 2 rows of peas that were up on 3-4 foot wire fencing and made his way out between two rows of vegetables without stepping on a plant.

The gardens and flowers are all looking fine. Black flies and mosquitoes along with the "no-see-ums" are all very busy on Sunday River in spite of the sprays.

Mr. and Mrs. Estes Yates called on their daughter, Mrs. E. A. Haines, Sunday. Mrs. Haines seems to be a little improved.

Excuse me I cannot remember his rating but Charles Ramsdell who has been on a furlough with his parents has returned to Boston.

Laura Adams and Greg and Lorene were supper guests of the Bryce Yates recently.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank the Town Manager and Selectmen, Roy Barker, "Mick" McMillin, and the American Legion and all others who helped to make our Antique Car Rally possible. Mollycodd Chapter of MOAL.

DON'T BE LITTERBUGS

DON'T LITTER

Why do people litter their towns and cities and the countryside? This distasteful condition persists despite the concerted campaigns of civic organizations, governmental agencies and many individual citizens groups.

The basic reason for the problem is that many people are just thoughtless. Too many of us simply feel no personal responsibility for the appearance of our communities. An ever-stretching network of highways, increased travel, greater outdoor recreation facilities, and more leisure time all combine to provide even more opportunities for the litterbug.

Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national public service organization for the prevention of litter, offers suggestions how everyone can help in the litter fight. They are:

Keep your own home and property litter-free.

Carry a litterbag in your car or boat. Always dispose of trash in a proper receptacle.

Urge municipal officials to provide adequate collection and disposal facilities and a sufficient number of receptacles for street trash.

Cooperate with others working to eliminate litter in your community. If there is no litter-prevention program in the area—start one.

Remember that litter is a costly eyesore that blights and corrodes, lowers property values, discourages tourists and alienates potential new business and industry. Everyone should help eliminate litterbugging.

STATE POLICE ACADEMY TENTATIVELY SLATED TO START SEPT. 5

The 25th annual Maine State Police Academy training session for new troopers has been tentatively scheduled for September 5, Colonel Parker F. Hennesey announced Wednesday.

Applications are being accepted to fill fifteen new positions for troopers approved by the 103rd Legislature and a number of vacancies created by retirement, Hennesey said.

The State Police chief also announced that the age requirement for troopers has been extended from 21 to 29 years of age inclusive. Maximum qualifying age previously has been 25.

Other basic qualifications for candidates include minimum weight of 150 pounds, minimum height of 5 feet, 9 inches, Maine residency for at least one year, sound physical condition, high school education or the equivalent and normal color vision.

Candidates remain on cadet trooper status for one year. The academy training encompasses 14 weeks and more than 1,000 hours of instruction and practical work in all phases of law enforcement.

New legislation pertaining to retirement permits a state police officer to retire after 20 years of service with mandatory retirement at age 55.

Initial application by candidates must be made through the State Department of Personnel, where qualifying examinations are given on a continuing basis.

OUT-PATIENT BENEFITS ARE BEING LIBERALIZED BY BLUE CROSS-BLUE SHIELD

Effective last month Associated Hospital Service of Maine is further liberalizing its out-patient benefits for all Maine Blue Cross-Blue Shield subscribers according to Richard F. Neilson, Executive Director.

The improved program will pay charges in full for out-patient emergency accident care rendered within 72 hours of an accident for all Blue Cross patients. It will also pay in full for cutting procedures performed in the hospital on an out-patient basis.

The new diagnostic out-patient benefits program will have a $7.50 deductible instead of the $10 deductible that was required under the original plan and will be available to all Blue Cross subscribers regardless of their level of coverage.

In October, 1961, AHS introduced on an experimental basis, an out-patient program for such services as X-ray exams, electrocardiograms and others, with the patient responsible for the first $10.

EXAMINATIONS FOR HIGH SCHOOL EQUIVALENCY CERTIFICATES AUG. 3-4

Examinations for adults who failed to complete their high school education and now wish to qualify for a High School Equivalency Certificate will be held August 3 and 4, according to announcement by Dr. Joseph J. Devitt of the State Department of Education. Under the present law, Maine residents 21 or older and veterans any age whose high school classes have graduated are eligible. The 103rd Legislature has passed a revision of this law which will lower the age requirement to 20, effective in October.

These general educational development tests, successfully completed, lead to a State High School Equivalency Certificate having the legal status of a high school diploma and thus serving in lieu of a diploma for many employment purposes and as a basis for further education or training.

The five tests in the examination are of the multiple choice type in English grammar, the social studies, natural science, literary materials, and general mathematical ability.

Examinations will be given August 3 and 4 at the Gorham, Farmington, Washington, and Westbrook State Colleges, and at the University of Maine in Orono. Application blanks may be secured from the State Department of Education at Augusta, and should be returned to the Department not later than July 24.

ing unnecessary admissions for services that can be performed on an out-patient basis, is one of the reasons that the program can be offered without additional charge.

The program going into effect June 15, will further liberalize benefits, simplify billing procedures for the hospital and offer a broader and more understandable program for the some 342,000 Maine Blue Cross-Blue Shield members.

The new program provides diagnostic out-patient hospital charges less deductible of $7.50 for each 31-day period.

For hospital based physicians, scheduled fees will be accepted in full and the schedule will be the same one accepted for Medicare for the professional component less 5 per cent.

For physicians using their own equipment which is not hospital-based, charges less the $7.50 deductible for each 31-day period. Electrocardiograms will be limited to $12.50 per day.

The new benefits and billing procedure will be effected for services rendered on and after June 15, 1967.
